Description of Change to the Customer:

Key Changes:

- Inner Box Label Update: To comply with California's Proposition 65, a warning label will be added to the inner box label for all datacenter SSD products. Proposition 65 requires businesses to inform Californians of potential exposure to chemicals known to cause cancer, birth defects, or other reproductive harm. Components within the Solidigm products may contain chemicals that are at concentrations above the safe harbor levels. These components are not typically handled outside of the Solidigm manufacturing environment because they are enclosed in the finished product. However, Solidigm made the decision to provide a warning label even if our products do not contain Proposition 65 chemicals, or even if the concentrations of those chemicals are below the safe harbor levels.
- Outer Box Label Update: The outer box label format will include the following changes:
 - Addition of the Universal Product Code (UPC)
 - Addition of the Ordering Code
 - Text update from "Pack Date" to "Date Code"

For a summary of these changes, please refer to Tables 1 and 2.

Customer Impact of Change and Recommended Action:

No qualification action is required. Customers are encouraged to update their records to reflect the new label format, which includes the addition of the UPC, Ordering Code, and a change from 'Pack Date' to 'Date Code.' Solidigm will work to deplete existing inventory labels before implementing the new labels on or after January 12, 2025. Customers can expect to see the updated labels in shipments starting on or after this date, continuing until all old labels are used up.
